Licensing Process
Steps for becoming a licensed, Wood-Destroying Insect Inspector

If you DO NOT have a Commercial Pesticide Applicator License

Step 1: Complete mandatory class for Wood-Destroying Insect (WDI) inspection
This class will fill the requirement for the mandatory training for WDI inspections (Category 12). After completing the class, you will have the opportunity to take the Category 12 and Core exams. The WDI exam will cover the materials given out and covered during class. Please note that the core topic is not covered in depth during this class, but is covered in the study materials sent by the Ohio Department of Agriculture (ODA).

Step 2: Apply for Ohio Commercial Pesticide Applicator License and Pass Exams
You must pass both the Core and Category 12 exams to receive an applicator license. To receive the study materials to prepare for the exam, submit a license application and fee for a pesticide applicator license to the ODA. You will receive a packet of study materials for the exams; allow 4-8 weeks for delivery. You may take the Core and Category 12 exams either before or after taking the class, but you must pass both exams before receiving your license.

Step 3: Obtain a business license if you own your business
If you own your business, you must obtain a Pesticide Business License from the ODA and show proof of insurance for errors and omissions.

If you DO have a Commercial Pesticide Applicator License

Step 1: Complete mandatory class for Wood-Destroying Insect inspection and pass exam
This class will fill the requirement for the mandatory training for Wood-Destroying Insect inspection (Category 12). After completing the class, you will have the opportunity to take the Category 12 exam. The exam will cover the materials given out and covered during class. You must pass the exam and complete the training before Category 12 will be added to your license.

Step 2: Add errors and omissions to your insurance policy
You must add errors and omissions for Wood-Destroying Insect inspections to the insurance policy or rider that is required for your business license.
